The lockdown and restrictions on mobility of COVID patients rendered the need for credible vehicle drivers or companies who were willing to transport COVID-19 patients as well as other citizens in need. Some of these facilities provided round-the-clock transport as well as transfers to hospitals and testing centres. Volunteers cross-checked and verified that these transport facilities were operational and willing to provide transportation. They also included oxygen-equipped ambulances, taxis and transport for pregnant women, emergency and non-emergency vehicles across Tamil Nadu.

“

Thanks to the Chennai Volunteers list, I was able to arrange an oxygen ambulance for my mother in the middle of the night when I was stuck in another part of the city. Without an ambulance, we would not have been able to save my mother. Thanks to the list and all the volunteers who worked towards this cause. Really glad to see verified sources of information being put out to help people during this crisis.
